Dot Hatfield's book signing; WCCW judges chosen for AWC

Dot Hatfield had a book signing, Feb. 13, at the Beebe Library for her newly released novel, "Worth the Candle" (see below). She reports that although "The weather started out stormy, after an hour the sun came out and I had about 25 people come through. The Beebe library was very busy that Saturday morning and turned out to be a great venue for my signing. Thanks to the WCCW folks who were supportive. Also, a local book club chose my book to read this month and then asked me lots of questions about my writing. That was a lot of fun. (besides they each bought a book!)."

In other club news, Judges were chosen for the contest WCCW is sponsoring in the Arkansas Writers' Conference. They are: Del Garrett, Dorothy Hatfield, and Kim Vernon.

March meeting includes new copyright law

In the March meeting, Del Garrett will talk about a new law passed January 1, 2019, concerning copyright laws in the public domain.
