Gary Breezeel has a new book of short stories published called Off the Wall.

John McPherson took 1st place in a poetry contest.

Del Garrett's Raven's Inn Press is publishing another JFK Assassination Files, as well as an assortment of E-books. Also, he'll be published in the next Saddlebag Dispatches anthology.

We have speakers for the upcoming conference, which will be held in the White County Extension Service Building on June 14, 2025. Daisy's Lunchbox will cater. JB Hogan is this year's inductee into the Arkansas Writers Hall of Fame.

$12 dues need to be paid for the year. A price increase may need to be discussed at a later date.

Steve gave a talk on making 2025 the Best Year Ever for writing, and members shared resources they use for their writing.

Next month's meeting talk will be led by Don Money on Drabble; there will be an assignment after.

OFF THE WALL is a fun-filled collection of short stories by award-winning storyteller Gary L. Breezeel. This is a treasure trove of short stories featuring animals with human-like characteristics, fractured fairy tales and legends, ghosts, magic, supernatural phenomena, and a taste of history as it never was. This collection is for every reader who likes out of the ordinary, off the wall stories. Fans of Terry Pratchett's Lost Stories will love this collection.
